LU07362	LU07362 M.C.S. ENTRIES = ++PTF (LU07362) ENHANCEMENT TO BATCH BUNDLING TO OUTPUT TO DATASET ENHANCEMENT DESCRIPTION: Enhancement to the Deliver Batch Bundling Program (RMOBBP) to write bundle output to a BNDLOUT DD statement if supplied as part of the submitted JCL for the bundle. The BNDLOUT DD statement can reference a data set (disk or tape), GDG data set, sysout data set, SUBSYS data, or Unix file. The output dataset can have RECFM of F, FA, FM, FB, FBA, FBM, V, VA, FM, VB, VBA, VBM, U, UA, or UM and have any LRECL and BLKSIZE. Also two additional variables, &JOBNAME and &BINSTn, will be supported in the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL used to submit the bundle. The &JOBNAME variable represents the jobname indicated on the job card in the Bundle Job Statement Information. The &BINSTn variable where n is 1 to 5 digit number representing the line number of the Bundle Special Instruction Text to be inserted. To selectively insert a BNDLOUT DD statement into the bundle JCL will require changes to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member. A few methods are highlighted below. All of these methods will require the addition of a JCLLIB statement to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member before the EXEC statement which references a PDS that contains the BNDLOUT DD statements. 1. Reserve the fourth JCL line in the Bundle Job Statement Information for an INCLUDE JCL statement (i.e., // INCLUDE MEMBER=BNDLOUT). The MEMBER name would be different for each bundle that requires output to a unique BNDLOUT DD statement. In addition to adding the JCLLIB statement to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member, move the &SJC4 statement after the EXEC JCL card. For normal printing of the bundle to sysout, just code fourth JCL statement in the bundle as /* or leave blank. 2. Reserve the fourth JCL line in the Bundle Job Statement Information for a SET JCL statement (i.e., // SET MEMBER=BNDLOUT). The MEMBER name would be different for each bundle that requires output to a unique BNDLOUT DD statement. In addition to adding the JCLLIB statement to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member, add // SET MEMBER=DEFAULT JCL card before &SJC4 card, and add // INCLUDE MEMBER=&MEMBER JCL card after EXEC JCL card. Define a member of DEFAULT to the JCLLIB PDS data set with a JCL card of /. For normal printing of the bundle to sysout, also just code fourth JCL statement in the bundle as / or leave blank. 3. Code an INCLUDE JCL statement in Bundle Special Instructions. In addition to adding the JCLLIB statement to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member, add &BINST1 card (starting in column 1) after EXEC JCL card if using the first special instruction line. For normal printing of the bundle to sysout, code that Bundle Special Instruction Line as '/*' or ' '. Note that changes to the RMOJCLB skeleton JCL member will have to be loaded into the database with the RMODBASE OLOAD control statement. LU07393	LU07393 M.C.S. ENTRIES = ++PTF (LU07393) RMODSC ISSUES RMODSC11 ERROR WHEN USING RMODSCU1 USER EXIT PROBLEM DESCRIPTION: The Deliver Dataset Collector (RMODSC) issues RMODSC11 Report not defined to database error message when using the RMODSCU1 user exit and first record of input file identifies first report. SYMPTOMS: The Deliver Dataset Collector is dropping the first data record of the input file causing the RMODSCU1 user exit to not recognize the beginning of the first report in the input file. All subsequent reports except for the first report are successfully input into Deliver. IMPACT: Difficulty inputting all reports from input file when using the RMODSCU1 user exit with RMODSC program. CIRCUMVENTION: Add dummy record to beginning of input file when using RMODSCU1 user exit. LU07427	LU07427 M.C.S. ENTRIES = ++PTF (LU07427) WEB VIEWER: INDEX SELECTION DISPLAYS WRONG VALUES PROBLEM DESCRIPTION: Web Viewer r14 presents the wrong index values when the index cannot be uniquely identified. SYMPTOMS: When a user selects an index in the Web Viewer r14 UI the values displayed are always for the first matching index when the index cannot be uniquely identified. This occurs when the report has multiple logical views: - with unnamed indexes. - with indexes that have the same index names. IMPACT: Only the values for the first matching index can be displayed by the Web Viewer r14 UI when the index cannot be uniquely identified. Subsequent matching indexes will incorrectly display the values for the first matching index. Since the correct values are not displayed, the user cannot see the data using the selected underlying logical view. CIRCUMVENTION: Rename one or more of the indexes in VIEW so the index can be uniquely identified by the Web Viewer r14 UI.
